

WINTER UPDATE 2011/12

15/12/11 - 3.30pm

This afternoon, fresh and gusty westerly winds will gradually ease. There will be sunny spells and showers. This evening it will cloud over from the south-west with rain moving in around 1900/2000. The rain, some heavy, will turn to sleet then snow on high ground initially from around 0400/0500 then low levels too. This is expected to give a slushy few cms on high ground and at most a slushy covering on low ground, but it will struggle to settle on low level roads given that they will be wet. Road Surface Temperature will fall to or below zero during the snow. The sleet/snow will clear east around 1000.

Crews will be in the depot at 4am and will treat when necessary and continue to monitor/treat until the snow has passed.
